Nussbaum’s Island

My name is Nussbaum, and I own an island in the Pacific Ocean. My island is shaped like a human face viewed from the side. Right in the middle of my island are the houses. There are four houses. To the east of the houses is the well where we can get fresh water.

There is a path across the middle of the island going from East to West. We call this Nussbaum’s Trail. Going down the middle of the island from North to South is a different trail. It is called Snake Trail because we found snakes near it. The trails go right where the houses are located.

In the southeast corner along the edge of the island is the lagoon. This is where I had many dangerous and fun adventures! On the northeast corner are the Panther Mountains. Located in the mountains was a cave where gorillas lived. Coming from the mountains and flowing west is the Opie Creek. We can also get fresh water from the creek.

All along the northern coast of the island is Black Sand Beach. This beach has great sand and swimming areas. This area is bordered by dense jungle. On the southwestern corner of the island is a peninsula, which we named Malcolm’s Peninsula.

On the northwestern part of the island is a volcano. Now you know about Nussbaum’s Island. Doesn’t it sound like a great place for an adventure!
